Join Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, Classic FM's Orchestra in the South, for an evening of world-class music. The BSO will be performing its 'Elgar's Masterpiece' concert in Yeovil on Wednesday 25 September and Exeter on Thursday 26 September.

Elgar's Cello Concerto was first performed in Bournemouth just days after its premiere in London, such was Sir Dan Godfrey's desire to get the best of British music down to the south coast. Since that time the work has grown in popular stature with its powerful yet understated evocation of the English countryside and psyche.

The concert will open with Sibelius' Finlandia, taking you on a tour of Finland's epic history. The evening will then be capped off with a performance Tchaikovsky's Symphony No.5, bringing the romantic era and 19th century Russia to life through its flowing, vivid strings.

These concerts will be conducted by Marta Gardolińska, the BSO's Young Conductor in Association. Marta has been wowing audiences since she joined the Orchestra in September 2018, with Classical Source describing her as "highly promising and exciting conductor".

2. Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra is a cultural beacon for the South and South West, existing to give people across the region of over 10,000 square miles the opportunity to experience and participate in great art. As one of the UK's busiest orchestras, the BSO reaches around 5,000 concert-goers per week and is the only UK symphony orchestra not based in a major city.
3. Since its founding in 1893, the BSO has been committed to bringing the highest quality of music to audiences around the world and making music more accessible for everyone. Last year, the BSO made history becoming the first orchestra in the world to form a professional disabled-led ensemble. Six months after the ensemble's creation, BSO Resound became the first disabled-led ensemble to ever perform at the BBC Proms.
4. A core part of the BSO's mission is its work beyond the concert hall. BSO Participate offers a diverse range of people across a myriad of communities the opportunity to experience the power of music, irrespective of circumstance. The BSO organises a variety of activities across the South and South West ranging from inspirational workshops in schools to special performances in care homes. 5. As a registered arts charity the BSO is increasingly reliant on the support of individuals, charitable trusts and companies. The income earned from ticket sales, commercial activity and grants from public funding sources help the Orchestra greatly and is increasingly invaluable in supporting BSO's on-going mission to enrich and inspire the cultural lives of many.
6. The BSO's Principal Broadcast Partner is BBC Radio 3
7. The BSO is Classic FM's Orchestra in the South of England.
